THE FACTS OF THE CASE.

The mail service on the El Paso & Northeastern rallroad needs investigation. Mail leaving El Paso for Nogal and other points between Alamogordo and Capitan does not reach its destinaing El Paso. For instance letters and papers leaving El Paso Tuesday mornng do not reach Nogal until Wednesreceive Tuesday evening. The attention of the department at Washington will be called to this matter. There is no earthly reason why such mail should be held at Alamogordo a single hour .-

FIGHTING FILIPINOS.

In Setting Up a New Government, Captain William Bennett, formerly with the Sixth cavalry, is keeping up the reputation of officers of that organization in the Sixteenth infantry, to which he was promoted some time ago, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune. The Sixteenth is now posted at Aparri, in the island of Luzon, and detachments have frequent brushes with The Twentieth Annual Fair of the the insurrectos. A short time ago two companies of the Sixteenth, C. commanded by Captain Newton, and Il, Atamogordo and La Luz, . New Mexico commanded by Captain Bennett, left Aparri to make a short trip into the surrounding country. They proceeded up a river in cascoes, the native boats, and after two days' voyage discovered a force of about 250 rebels about three miles away.

The order to attack was given at once, and Lieutenant Gordon, with a portion of Company E, formed the advance guard, supported by Captain Bennett with the balance of the compa ny. After forcing their way into the wilderness some distance the soldiers were fired on by the rebe's, and Lieutenant Gordon was shot through the who will handle the "Midway Plai- leg. Bryan would have the country believe mailed to a first-class aeronaut, who, who rushed the insurgents out of their concealment and drove them toward Milaug.

The next day the town was entered, and it was discovered that about 20 of the rebels had been killed and a large with Roman candles and other firing number wounded. The pursuit was kept up for two days and two engagements fought. Since being in the l'hil- $. ippines Captain Bennett has been called on to administer the oath of office to several of the native town officers and has had several odd experiences. At one place the wives of the councilmen, learning that the Americans intended to take pictures of their husbands, tusisted that theirs also be taken. Accordingly they arranged themselves for portraits before 6 o'clock in the morning, having remained up nearly all uight for fear that the Americans would leave before performing that important work. A matter of etiquette interfered somewhat, as none of the women wanted to stand while others were seated. There were too many to be included to permit all to be seated, and the officers and to argue the matnity was not being infringed.
